PREFACE.

The work of examining and cataloguing the graves of the heroes of the Secession War, in and around Richmond, was undertaken in behalf of friends at home, to save them the weary task of groping among the dead for their loved and lost ones. The results of the work, which was carried on by the Agents of the Christian Commission, under the direction of Hen. C. Houghton, Chief of the Individual Relief Department, are embodied in the following pamphlet, which can lay claim to only an approximate accuracy. Further search might furnish additional particulars, and we doubt not that such search will be made. But even in aid of this, the record here given will be valuable.

BELLE ISLE.

The Cemetery at Belle Isle has been fenced in by the Commission, but the head-boards remain as when the city was occupied, the names being carved in, not painted.

OAKLAND CEMETERY.

The following are the graves of those who died in Libby Prison, and who were buried in a gravelly ravine just outside of the Oakland Cemetery, one and a half miles out of Richmond. The Commission, through its agents, Messrs. Clarke and A. Lawrence, provided new head-boards, with the names neatly painted, for every grave which could be identified, and procured an order to have the ground fenced in, which was done by the Quartermaster, under their inspection.

DANVILLE.

On the 15th of May, 1864, two U. S. C. C. Agents—Messrs. Houghton and Williams—visited Danville, and obtained the following list, which dates from November 24, 1864, to April 28, 1865. The prisoners had been confined in four large factories. The cemetery is about a mile and a half from the town, and is well arranged. The graves are marked by head-boards, with the names legibly painted, and more care is evident than in any other Confederate prison burial-place. The bodies of any of our soldiers can be obtained—through Mr. Hill, of that city, undertaker—by their friends, at any time during the Fall.

The initial letters, after the date, indicate the disease of which each died. D. C.—Chronic Diarrhœa; F. T.—Typhoid Fever; V.—Small-pox; R. C.—Chronic Rheumatism; Pn.—Pneumonia; F. A.—Fever and Ague; E.—Erisypelas; B. C.—Chronic Bronchitis; H.—Liver Disease; H. C.—Chronic Liver Disease; D. A.—Acute Diarrhœa; C.—Consumption; V. F.—Varioloid; Pl.—Pleurisy; C. C.—Heart Disease; N.—Neuralgia; S.—Scurvy; F. C.—Congestive Fever; D.—Diphtheria; P.—Paralysis; Cat.—Catarrh.

Note.—In addition to the above list, two (2) white soldiers died in prison, and one (1) on the cars, whose names I was unable to ascertain. Nine (9) Freedmen also died in prison, who could not be identified during my term of undertaking—extending from November 24, 1863, to October 21, 1864.

I will likewise inform the friends of the deceased, that there exists a statute in the State of Virginia, which forbids the exhuming of all persons who have died from variolous diseases.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN J. HILL, Danville, Va.

There were eleven Federal prisoners who died in transitu, and were taken from the cars, and buried here, during the period of time extending from October 23, 1864, to the surrender of General Lee's army.

Respectfully, yours, D. H. STRICKLAND.

Buried on Major Watson's Farm, four miles from Farmville.

Lieut. Cyrus Patton, G, 54th Pennsylvania.
David Cringle, G, 54th Pennsylvania.
Lieut. Geo. T. Davis, L, 4th Mass. Cav.

We repaired sixty-two graves, covering the graves deeper, and marking the graves thus repaired.

About three hundred and forty skeletons were buried in seven common graves. Nos. one and seven being to the left of Cold Harbor Road. Nos. two, three and four, between Cold Harbor and Quaker Roads. No. five, at the right of Quaker Road, and near the point where it turns to go to Kidd's Mills. No. six, to the right of Quaker Road, on the Gaines' Mills Battle-field, about half a mile from Stewart's house.

We have the following, which may furnish some clue to the identification of a few persons:

A number of envelopes, a few of each directed as follows.

Andrew Acker, Tonawanda, Erie Co., N. Y.
Gregory Kerberger, East Amherst, Erie Co., N. Y.
Peter Pauley, East Amherst, Erie Co., N. Y.
Thos. Cook, East Carlton, Orleans Co., N. Y.

Register of Deaths at Camp Lawton, Millin, Ga.

1864-5.

In the hasty evacuation of Savannah by the rebels in Dec., 1864, there was left behind a small box of blank books connected with the Medical Department of Camp Lawton. One of these books contained the "Death Register" of the Rebel Prison above named. A Presbyterian Clergyman cut out the leaves containing the list of the dead and brought them to the Christian Commission. This valuable MS. has since been deposited by the Commission in the national archives at Washington.

The numbers given probably refer to the order in which the graves were dug. If so the bodies may be identified by the corresponding number marked upon the graves at Millin.

1. Unknown.
